

U.S. ACCEPTS LAST OFFER ON LUSITANIA

SECRETARY LANSING FINDS GERMAN PROPOSALS FOR SETTLEMENT ARE SATISFACTORY.

INSISTS ON WARNINGS

Asks Von Bernstorff for Assurances That Merchant Ships Will Be Warned Even Though Carrying Defense Guns.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Secretary Lansing today accepted the Lusitania agreement as acceptable to the United States as it relates to that case, but asked Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador, for assurances that Germany will not carry on its policy of sinking merchant ships without warning to liners, even if they carry defensive armament.

Armament Question Unsettled. The question of what constitutes defensive armament is to be determined later in a way not yet agreed upon. It was suggested that the United States may propose that arms mounted on the stern of ships and capable of being swung from 15 to 30 degrees in either direction, might come within that clause. It was stated authoritatively that Germany's acceptance of its usual position, cannot and will not accept the suggestion of the United States as it now stands, that liners carrying arms, shall be immune from attack under previous assurances.

Consider New Angle. President Wilson and Secretary Lansing were considering today the new German proposal designed to settle the Lusitania controversy to determine whether its terms would be nullified by the announced intention of the Teutonic powers to sink all armed enemy merchant ships without warning after Feb. 20.

American officials expressed the opinion that the submarine controversy with Germany cannot be closed until assurances are given that the safety of neutrals and non-combatants at sea have been altered by the latest German declaration. They fear that the United States is faced with a long series of diplomatic exchanges, and state that the situation is where it was several weeks ago when it was described as grave.

The Austrian notice of intention to treat armed merchant ships as subject to attack without warning was received today by the state department from Ambassador Penfield at Vienna. It was dated Feb. 16, and is in line with the German declaration on the same subject, already published.

German Shipowner's Opinion. Amsterdam, Feb. 17.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company, says that the manager of one of the greatest German shipping companies in an interview, expressed a most pessimistic opinion concerning the effect of a possible breach of relations between Germany and the United States. This shipper, who is believed to be the director of the Hamburg-American Steamship company, is quoted as follows: "A breach of Germany's relations with the United States would have a serious effect. All America's money and munitions would be at the disposal of the enemy. We would have to take over the feeding of the Belgians, who would probably be induced to neutralize us. All our ships would finally be interned in American ports. This would cause enormous wealth from us. Our people would be in a difficult position. When the war is over, Germany will have to replenish her stocks of raw materials. Do not entertain any illusions with regard to England. She will continue to carry on the war after military operations are over. She will take away all our trade with Africa and Australia, and it will take years for our passenger service to reach a condition like that which existed before the war."

CONGRESS PREPARES MILITARY MEASURES

Plans For Increasing Regular Army and Federalization of Militia Taken Up in Committees.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Plans for increasing the regular army and for the federalization of national guard units to take definite shape today. The house military committee, under the leadership of Francis P. Miller, resumed work on its measure to increase the regular army to between 100,000 and 200,000 men.

PALMER TO LEAD FIGHT FOR PENN. DEMOCRATS

Philadelphia, Feb. 17.—Former Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer will again lead the Democratic fight in Pennsylvania during the coming presidential campaign. He took the reins following a conference here of State leaders. At the same time he announced that he would be a candidate for national committee member at the conference. It was decided that either Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson or E. J. Lynett, of Scranton, should be the choice for United States Senator. The conference was called to discuss the State Democratic situation. The question of delegates to the National Convention was brought up and it was decided to appoint a steering committee to decide upon the delegates at large.

NO TRUTH IN REPORT OF A WRECKED ZEPPELIN

London, Feb. 17.—A dispatch from Rotterdam to the Star says that the report that a Zeppelin had been blown down during yesterday's storm and landed at Blerik in Holland, and there seized and interned by the authorities is without foundation.

RUSS TAKE 100,000 TURKISH PRISONERS IN ERZERUM'S FALL

Capture of Stronghold in Asia Minor by Slaves One of War's Big Events—British Losses in Mesopotamia.

Petrograd, Feb. 17.—The official Messenger estimates the Turkish garrison at Erzerum, capture of which was announced yesterday as 100,000 men. It is estimated that more than 1000 guns were captured.

Report From Mesopotamia. Constantinople, via London, Feb. 17.—The losses of one of the British expeditions in Mesopotamia in a battle with the Turks near Batha, west of Korna, amounted to 2,000 officers and men, according to an official announcement given out by Turkish war department under date of Feb. 16.

The statement also says the Russians lost 5,000 men in killed in a three day battle on Caucasian front. The text of statement follows: "The front. One of our Zepelins flew over the enemy artillery positions at Kut-el-Amara, successfully dropping twelve bombs which had great effect."

"After his defeat in the battle near Batha, west of Korna, the enemy left many dead on his road of retreat. The enemy losses in that battle as established up to the present, amounted to 2,000 men and 300 animals."

Fighting in Caucasus. Caucasian front. In the fighting which has been in progress during the last three days, despite cold weather and snow, the enemy lost 5,000 dead and sixty prisoners.

"Dardanelles. A cruiser, a monitor and torpedo boat of the enemy on Feb. 13 fired twenty shells on Toka Burnu and then withdrew before the fire of our coast batteries. The fire of the warships did no damage."

"Near Aden, in the woods between Sheikh Hosman and Eliale, an enemy reconnoitering detachment was ambushed, nearly all the men being killed. Those escaping fled in direction of Sheikh Hosman, leaving behind all their baggage."

FLOOD BREAKS DOWN MISSISSIPPI LEVEE

Villages and Cities Near New Orleans Swamped by Flood Water—Refugees Rescued.

New Orleans, Feb. 17.—Flood water from a levee in the Mississippi river at Duck River today broke through the town of St. Joseph. The water is taking a southward course, after having filled Lake Bruin, seven miles beyond New Orleans.

Rescue efforts are being made by the rescuing parties and organized efforts are being made to take the marooned persons to places of safety. Scarcity of boats makes rescue work difficult.

The food situation is expected to present a serious problem at New Orleans.

RELIGIOUS REFORMER GETS A PRISON TERM

Preaches on Morals Yet Is Convicted for Violation of the White Slave Laws. Madison, Feb. 17.—Charles Polkabe, anti-Catholic lecturer of Waterloo, Wis., will spend two and a half years in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., for violating the Mann act.

He was sentenced at Superior yesterday by Judge K. M. Landis of Chicago. During the last year Polkabe toured Kansas delivering lectures on immorality of Catholic clergy. Polkabe, who is married, is housed from Waterloo with Mrs. Anna Kelley, a saloonkeeper's wife. They taunted their respective wife and husband with postal cards which told of sublime happiness in the newer life and prospects of perpetual sunshine and flowers.

Mrs. Kelley has not been sentenced.

WRECK ON FLORIDA SEABOARD AIRLINE

Thirteen Passengers Injured When Tender on Train Jumps Track Near Station.

Richmond, Feb. 17.—The Seaboard Airline's Florida Limited No. 1, northbound, was wrecked today at Kingsland Bridge, ten miles south of here, while running at high speed. No one was killed, but thirteen persons were injured and others less seriously hurt. The engine tender jumped the track, ripping up rails and ties, and four coaches went down a steep embankment.

The injured were brought to Richmond hospitals.

MARRIED MEN NEXT FOR ENGLISH ARMY

British War Office to Turn Attention Next Upon the Newly-Weds.

London, Feb. 17.—Young married men who have not enlisted are soon to receive the attention of the war office, which is considering the question of bringing pressure to bear upon them to induce them to join the army. All single men who attested under the Earl of Derby plan have been called up, and the compulsory military service act enrolls all other bachelors of military age, who have not been exempted.

Married men who attested under the Derby plan, will next be called to arms.

HIGH PRICES FOR TROUT RECEIVED IN MANITOWOC

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Manitowoc, Feb. 17.—Fishermen of this city are getting top prices for their trout. The price is 18 cents per pound, and with the approach of Lent and possibility of bad weather it is likely to go still higher. The catch has been unusually high this season. The highest price on record for No. 1 trout in previous years is 19 cents.

NOT GIRL'S POISONER, SAYS COLLEGE STUDENT; HIS LAWYERS PLAN DEFENSE

Will Orpet, photographed since Miss Lambert's death. Lawyers for Will Orpet, University of Wisconsin student held for murder at Watkegan, Ill., will set up as one of the mainstays of his defense the allegation that Marian Lambert, his wife, was in the woods at the edge of Lake Forest, that she was not in a condition to take poison from Orpet, knowing that it is argued, she would not have taken poison from Orpet, believing it medicine to relieve her condition.

JURY FOR LORIMER CASE BEING DRAWN

Will Require Several Weeks to Secure Panel to Try La Salle Bank Failure Case.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Selection of a jury to try William Lorimer on charges growing out of the failure of the La Salle Street Trust & Savings Bank began today before Judge Dever, in Chicago criminal court. It is estimated from two to three weeks will be required to complete the panel. Arguments of Lorimer's counsel to consolidate all indictments against him are expected to precede the examination of veniremen.

C. B. Munday, who was vice president of the La Salle bank at the time the acts alleged in the Lorimer indictment were said to have been committed, recently was convicted of conspiracy in connection with failure of the institution.

States senator Lorimer, once United States senator, today attended the opening session of his trial. He said he had no fear as to the outcome. Judge Dever of the criminal court, who presided, granted a preliminary motion on the defense that the major charge of conspiracy to defraud be consolidated with the minor charge of receiving deposits, after the bank's insolvency was known, and of alleged misrepresentation of the institution's assets. The state made no objection to the consolidation.

THEATRE COLLAPSE COSTS NINE LIVES

Three Killed in Opera House and Six in Cafe at Maxia, Texas.

Maxia, Tex., Feb. 17.—The number of persons killed as a result of the collapse of an opera house here last night and resulting fire, remained at nine this morning. J. B. Weisner, superintendent of the city schools, Mrs. Weisner and Prof. A. C. Bruton were killed when the building collapsed. A number of others in the building at the time were injured.

Two doors from the opera house, six men were killed in a cafe when the hall collapsed, and a gas explosion, followed by fire, occurred. A number of buildings were destroyed by fire with a loss estimated at $75,000.

About fifty were present at the supper given last night by the Moose Lodge Cribbage players, who were defeated in a tournament with the 99 I. O. O. F. team, at McDonald's restaurant at ten o'clock. From eight o'clock until ten, progressive cribbage between the two lodge teams was played at the West Side Odd Fellows hall.

KHEDIVE OF EGYPT IS WEARY OF RULE; TO GIVE UP THRONE

British Reported to Have Offered Place to Prince Yusuf.—Tribe's Rebellion Unchecked.

Berlin, wireless to Sayville, Feb. 17.—Advices from Cairo as given out by the Overseas News agency states that the Khedive of Egypt has become discontented and the British have offered the throne to Prince Yusuf, who has declined. The leader of the Senussi is said to have informed the British he was powerless to suppress the rebels.

A statement given out by the news agency is as follows: "The Italian newspaper Ardine of Ancona publishes a report from Cairo dated February 2, that the leader of the Senussi was requested by British authorities to terminate the combat on the western frontier of Egypt, but replies he is powerless against the rebels. The British said that the British authorities to terminate the combat on the western frontier of Egypt, but replies he is powerless against the rebels."

"The Khedive expressed to the British his intense pain that the Redif had been fired on. He requested Major General Sir John Maxwell, commander of British forces in Egypt, that the British officer who gave the order to fire on the Redif be court-martialed. In the meantime summoning of the Redif had been postponed."

"The Khedive has offered possession of the throne to Prince Yusuf, who declined."

IDENTIFY CORPSE WASHED ASHORE AS AMERICAN CONSUL

Relatives and Friends Express Confidence That Body of Robert McNeely Has Been Recovered.

Monroe, North Carolina, Feb. 17.—Friends of Robert McNeely of this city, who was lost on the steamer Persia, while enroute to his post as American consul at Aden, Arabia, said today they felt sure the body washed ashore near Alexandria, Egypt, as reported by the American Consul Garretts there, was McNeely.

The description of the clothing and jewelry tallies with articles McNeely bought here before departing.

A former room mate of McNeely said the watch found on the body was one a friend traded to him, and McNeely had placed the picture of his mother in it.

PAROLED PRISONER FOUND AS A TAILOR

Convict From Indiana Was Carrying on Tailoring Business in Village of Bloomer.

Chippewa Falls, Feb. 17.—Charles R. Loney, twenty-seven, who has been carrying on a tailoring business at the village of Bloomer, this county, since last spring, was arrested today after a detective had located him, as a parole prisoner from Warsaw, Indiana, where he had served part of a term for burglary. Loney's real name is said to be Charles Cox.

A search of Loney's shop revealed a complete set of burglar's tools, along with a great amount of plunder taken in connection with a series of robberies of business places in several surrounding towns last summer.

The work of the burglar in these towns was very mysterious and no clew was obtained until Loney's arrest was made.

Chief of Police Moon of Warsaw, is on his way here to claim the prisoner.

TRACTION ENGINES FOR WORK IN ARMY

Experiment With Traction Engines Instead of Horses to Pull Heavy Field Guns.

Fort Sill, Okla., Feb. 17.—Experiments using traction engines instead of artillery horses to pull heavy field pieces, have been conducted here recently under the direction of the war department. It became known today that the test, made upon marshy ground on the military reservation, was under the direction of two colonels and a lieutenant.

Spectators asserted that one of the feats accomplished was the crossing of a railroad bridge, a task said to be impossible with draft animals. Pulling a heavy cannon behind it, the machine lumbered over the ties, without mishap, the witnesses said.

The official report of the experimenting board, as to the adaptability of tractors for use in active service, will be made to the war department.

JURY DENIES WIDOW HUSBAND'S INSURANCE

Rule That Millionaire Lumberman Committed Suicide and Did Not Die From Accident.

Duluth, Feb. 17.—That John McAlpin, a millionaire lumberman, committed suicide, was the decision of the jury which heard the suit of his widow to recover on an accident insurance policy $25,000. The jury also returned a verdict in favor of the insurance company in addition to the special finding, as to the manner in which Mr. McAlpin met his death.

Suits for $20,000, all told, were brought. The other cases may not be heard. This is the first time that a jury has given a definite answer as to whether John McAlpin met his death.

His body was found in the cellar of his home, August 14, 1913. A revolver lay on the floor with one empty shell.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER CAPTURED BY POLICE

Baseball Manager Who It Is Claimed Skipped With the Railroad's Money, Is Caught.

Chippewa Falls, Feb. 17.—John R. Kidd, Jr., thirty-six, was arrested at St. Paul today on the charge of embezzling $700 from the Soo Line at Stanley, Wis., where he was station agent until last October, when he disappeared. Officers had made an extraordinary search for him and sometimes were close on his trail. Yesterday he was seen in Minneapolis, enroute to St. Paul.

Kidd is said to have used the money to finance a Stanley baseball team, of which he was manager last summer. His wife and family are in Eau Claire, where he was raised. Sheriff Gillette left this noon to get Kidd.

SAYS CRONES IS IN HIDING IN THE EAST

CAPTAIN HUNT ANNOUNCES HIS BELIEF WITH REFERENCE TO SUSPECT IN POISON CASE.

WAS SEEN IN BOSTON

Investigation Conducted in Boston and New York to Locate Alleged Plotter—Friend of Crones Arrested in Chicago.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Captain Nicholas Hunt announced today his conclusion that Jean Crones, the assistant chef wanted for putting poison in soup served at the banquet to Archbishop Mundelein last Thursday here, is hiding in New York or Boston.

Fritz Schoenfeld, believed by the police to have been a friend of Crones, was arrested today and taken to detective headquarters. The police said that he would be questioned concerning Crones' New York friends, and that this knowledge of Crones' activity in Chicago, would be inquired into.

While no official information was forthcoming from detective headquarters, it was learned today Chicago officials have been informed that Jean Crones, wanted in connection with poison in soup served at a banquet given for Bishop Mundelein, has been seen in Boston.

Detectives today set about investigating details of an alleged confession sent to a New York newspaper by a man who signed Crones' name. They said information gathered here tallied exactly with acts explained in alleged confession.

Investigate Report. Boston, Feb. 17.—The police today were investigating a report that Jean Crones, for whom the Chicago police are searching in connection with the alleged poisoning of soup at a banquet to Archbishop Mundelein, had been seen in this city.

That said when he spoke to him, a man told him to mind his own business, and hurried away in the direction of the South Boston district. Early in the day the police had found nothing to substantiate the report.

CHICAGO SHIP LINES ADOPT SAFETY LAWS

Steamships Operating at Chicago Will Obey Safety Rules of Seamen's Laws.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Passenger steamship lines of Chicago today announced that they had accepted all the safety provisions of the seamen's bill. The action was taken by five companies operating twenty-two ships, the majority of which are engaged in summer travel.

Their compliance with these safety laws, which require that they leave their crews to continue to urge modification of some of the provisions of the law, particularly the fire room three watch system.

The announcement was made by Sherman Lewis, secretary of the Lake Michigan Passenger Lines association, who said that the action was in conjunction with that of steamship operators of Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit.

TESTIFIES BRANDEIS NOT TO BE TRUSTED

Boston Attorney, Alleged President's Choice for Supreme Court, Wrecked Railroad.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Moorefield Storey, a Boston attorney, charged before the judiciary subcommittee of the senate today that Louis D. Brandeis, helped to wreck the New York and New England railroad in 1892 and 1893, with the result that it was absorbed by the New Haven road.

Asked as to Mr. Brandeis' reputation as a lawyer, Mr. Storey testified: "I think his reputation in the Boston bar is that he is very capable, very energetic and if necessary to advance his object, he is not scrupulous as to his methods, nor is he to be trusted."

ASSAIL UNIVERSITY PAPER FOR PUBLISHING ACCOUNT OF LAKE FOREST TRAGEDY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Feb. 17.—Students in the university are assailing the Daily Cardinal, the university publication, for the attitude being taken in the Orpet case. The Cardinal is publishing accounts of the case under big captions, making the student body indignant. The general belief is that the publication should refrain from publishing any accounts of the tragedy, in which the Badger student is implicated and being charged with murder.

Arthur C. Jenkins, 345 Milton avenue, suffered injuries about the head on Tuesday evening when he fell down a flight of stairs from the second story of his home.

EUGENICS AMONG CHICKENS IS THE LATEST FAD NOW

Columbus, O., Feb. 17.—It's up to the hen to go in for eugenics. The word has gone out from dealers that only eggs of a certain size, color, shape and weight are desirable. Hens belonging to chicken families not producing according to these plans and specifications are to get the ax.

"Who were your father and mother?" Upon the hen's answer to that will depend her chance of living. Ohio egg experts declare the dealers will have nothing but eggs of a color popular in their particular section and uniform in size for packing purposes. There is no difference in the taste or food values of the different eggs, but the color must satisfy the whims of the buyer and size must fit the crates. New York won't take eggs with brown shells and Boston won't accept those with white shells. The experts have agreed that a dozen eggs should weigh not less than 24 and not more than 28 ounces. The eggs should have a large diameter one and one-fifth times the smaller diameter and should not be short or round or long-pointed. They should be uniform in color, have strong smooth shells and be free from cracks and transparent spots. And the hens had better follow the rules, the experts say, or they'll certainly be massacred.

JANESVILLE ON LIST OF MUSICAL CLUBS

Wisconsin Musical Organizations Appear Here Tuesday Evening Next Under Auspices of Elks.

Holmes Ferris, one of the soloists with the University of Wisconsin musical organization that gives a concert in Janesville on Washington's birthday, is a former pupil of Prof. J. C. Taylor of this city, having studied under him for three years while at Beloit. A Madison representative of the coming trip of the university organization that promises to give most interesting concerts.

Four Wisconsin cities—Monroe, Janesville, Oshkosh and Port Huron—are to be visited next week by the University of Wisconsin musical club, which will present the same program as that which met with such an enthusiastic reception at the Fuller Opera House in this city last Thursday evening, the occasion being the prom concert of the Glee and Mandolin clubs.

This week's rehearsals are to be devoted to putting a finish on the performance. The men are learning "stage business" for the informal first part of the program. A few rearrangements of numbers and other special features are being carried out, and the program is being shortened a bit, so that it can be presented in two hours, including all intermissions. The prom concert, scheduled over two hours, is considered a little too long by the officers of the club, and by Coach L. W. Jones of the faculty.

The men leave in a special car over the Illinois Central road late Monday afternoon for the performance in Monroe that evening. Tuesday, a legal holiday, Washington's birthday—they go to Janesville to "play" their concert, returning to Madison Tuesday night. Friday afternoon they leave for Oshkosh, playing there in the Grand Opera House that evening, and in Port Huron at the Elks club Saturday night. In Monroe the Elks are sponsors for the entertainment.

ENTERTAIN TEN YOUNG LADIES AT DINNER LAST EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Little entertained ten young ladies of the Golden Eagle at a seven o'clock dinner at their home four miles west of town last evening. The evening was spent with dancing and cards. The following ladies were present: Misses Ruth Gleason, Mayme Spohn, Viola Pratt, Irene Sullivan, Dorothy Heider, Marie Murphy, Hazel Brennan, Elizabeth Gagan, Maude Winship and Miss D. McDonald as chaperone.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

(Though not a voter.)
"Forty years ago, Feb. 15, 1876.—The amount of business transacted at the money order window at the post office last Saturday amounted to the amount of $100,000. Mr. A. B. the regular clerk, being sick, the entire work was performed by Miss King."

There is an old adage (though I cannot give it verbatim) that an erroneous statement once put into circulation will never die—it may be once corrected, but it always comes back years afterward. "The pen is mightier than the sword" and the mistakes of years ago reappear in all their original vigor. The circumstances which led me to this line of thought was the reading in the Gazette of Tuesday an account of the fine showing at the city post office "forty years ago."

The article states that during the absence of our (always popular) assistant P. M., Douglas King, that the money order department on that day was closed. This was having been done by Miss King in the absence of her brother. The facts are that Miss King had not been employed in the post office a number of years and was giving her attention to the study and practice of law. When Mr. King returned to his duties and found that his substitute had made so good a showing, he gave the men to the reporter of the Gazette and worded it correctly. After the appearance of the item, the reporters of the "Recorder" and the "Times" (our democratic organs) "jumped upon" the reporter of the Gazette and suggested he "take the cotton out of his ears," the busy day's labor having been performed by Miss Peterson, at that time a clerk in the general delivery, but a willing assistant to Douglas King, who was doing the work of four men, that of assistant postmaster, also money order clerk, also registrar clerk and assistant at distribution of mail. At that time we had no letter carriers, no lock boxes except a few lock drawers occupied by newspapers and banks.

We had only four employees all told, viz: The assistant postmaster, the mailing clerk (the venerable Daniel Raynor with the flowing beard) and two general delivery clerks. We had no "night hours" per day at that time, but we put in a good twelve hours of hard work daily. We were all of us too weary to go to the movies in the evening (had there been any at the time). For the information of many of our citizens who were then among the unborn, I will add that our Mr. Douglas was the uncle of young Douglas King of this city, who at that time was a very fascinating baby and he used to visit me in the general delivery by being inserted head-first through the delivery window by his father, Wallace King, who had his news stand outside, in the vestibule.

These "side lights on the postoffice" may interest some of the Gazette readers who remember the old days of long ago. At any rate, they stand out very prominently in the remembrance of a long business life of

Yours very cordially,
Miss Peterson of the P. O.

LAKOTAS PLAY FAST FIVE HERE SATURDAY

Appleton Ideals, One of Best Teams in Northern Wisconsin, to Mingle With Lakotas.

After giving Company E of Fond du Lac two trimmings and being educated to eastern basketball, the Lakota Cardinals will turn again to real basketball, that of the western type, when they play the Appleton Ideals here on Saturday night. The Lakotas have good claims to the title of the middle west at the present time, since they have won the Peoria Tigers, champs of Illinois, and have the edge on Company E in two out of three games. The Appleton Ideals are considered the best team in northern Wisconsin with the exception of the Oswego players under the name of Fondy Company E. The Ideals were beaten in two games at Fond du Lac but the victory was only four and one point. The Ideals have Thompson, former Lawrence star, who is as good as forward as there is in the west. Wallop, who formerly lived in this city and is well known here, is playing guard for them. The Cardinals will have their old lineup of Dalton and Edgerly, guards; Hemmings, center; Atwood and Fletcher, forwards, and should win. The Ideals carry a reputation of being hard fighters and may be expected to give the Lakotas an interesting tilt.

TWO BELOIT BOWLERS IN LEAD AT ROCKFORD TOURNEY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Rockford, Ill., Feb. 17.—Two Beloit, Wis., men distanced all competitors in the individual event of the Northern Illinois bowling teams Wednesday night. W. Perkins rolled a score of 636, and L. Myhr made 621.

SAN JOHNSON BUYS THE CLEVELAND CLUB WEDNESDAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Cleveland, Feb. 17.—San Johnson, president of the American league, has purchased the Cleveland American league club, and he is holding the title of the club for four other persons who are the real owners. The price declared to have been paid for the Cleveland team is half a million.

DICK'S COLTS LOSE GAME TO HOWARD'S FIVE AT MILLER'S

Dick's Colts failed to win over Howard's Colts last night in a match game at the Miller alleys. Merrick came back strong in the last event and topped over 200 pins, thus getting the high score for the evening.

K. C. League.
The Balboas were too much for the Calverts last night in a match game for they were beaten by 189 pins. The other match game rolled in this league last night was a little closer. The La Fayettees won from the Columbus team by only five pins.

West Side Alleys.
The Painters in a match game last night, 163 was high score and that was rolled by Luecke, one of the carpenters. Following are the scores and line-ups:

NORTHWESTERN CONTINUES MARCH TO BIG NINE TITLE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Chicago, Feb. 17.—Northwestern University, the most feared team in conference basketball, beat Chicago last night for the second time by the score of 28 to 20. The Evanston team is fast rounding into the best team in the big nine.

JOHNNY KILBANE OUTPOINTS CREELY AT HOT SPRINGS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 17.—Featherweight Champion Kilbane last night gave Johnny Creely a bad trimming in a ten round bout. Creely was unable to lay a glove on the champion during the greater part of the mill.

WHITE SOX MAY TRADE JACKSON FOR FRITZ MAISEL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Chicago, Feb. 17.—Joe Jackson, the slugging outfielder of the White Sox, may be traded for Fritz Maisei of the New York Yankees. The Yanks have Homerun Baker and the Sox need a first class third baseman to round out their infield.

Al Lippe still insists that Jeff Smith knocked Les Darcy out in Australia and that he was robbed of a victory when the referee awarded the contest to Darcy on an alleged foul. Jeff is to get a chance to establish his claim to the middleweight championship at St. Paul on the night of March 8, when he meets Mike Gibbons. Jeff can't be denied if he does for Mike. The Phantom has got by every good man in the world except Darcy and Les has escaped on account of the distance from here to there, and back again.

BRITTON OUTPOINTS TED LEWIS IN BOUT

American Welterweight Gives English Fighter Beating in New York Last Night.

Lewis, who seemed to be somewhat stale, put up a grand gallop in the last round, when he jabbed and belted Britton with both hands, but his spirited smash could not begin to turn the victory to his favor.

Britton jabbed his way to victory, seldom using his right, but he was doubly accurate with the left. Lewis appeared sluggishly in his footwork and ducking. He could not keep away from Jack's left, especially when the latter had warmed to his work.

Lewis scaled at 14½ pounds, inside of legitimate welterweight limit. Britton was a pound and a half over the accepted figure. Britton thus holds the Dan Morgan welterweight championship of the world. Ted Lewis still retains the Jimmy Johnson title.

SMITH TO ADDRESS MADISON GATHERING

Janesville Man, President of State Bankers' Association, To Speak at Farmers' Meeting.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Wis., Feb. 17.—The farmers and bankers of the state are planning to meet here March 28. A tentative program has already been arranged which includes addresses on agricultural subjects by J. C. Halpin, R. A. Moore, S. M. Smith, president of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, G. C. Humphrey of the college of agriculture, George D. Bartlett, Milwaukee, secretary of the Wisconsin bankers' association and a number of other prominent Wisconsin farmers and men connected with the agricultural college at the university.

George Stovall, who has been turned down by all American league clubs may land with the Cincinnati Reds. First Baseman Mollwitz of the Reds has a bad arm as a result of a faulty setting of a fracture and Herzog is not counting on playing him at first. Charley Weeghman is trying to help Stovall get the Cincinnati job. He has interceded with the Cincinnati officials, and it is hoped at all events that the former manager of the Kansas City Reds will hold down first sack for the Redlegs.

Charley White, who is to referee the Willard and Moran bout, was the alternate referee at Reno when Jeffries and Johnson had that little misunderstanding. Mons. Charles likes to referee for the large children of the ring, and some of the greatest contests in history have been presided over by "old Eagle Eye."

Ad Wolgast says he is going to box Battling Nelson again. Mrs. Wolgast says that her Ad is going to do nothing of the kind. Oh, yes; Mrs. Wolgast is the boss of the Wolgast ranch at Cadillac, and when she heard that hubby was going to break his word and mingle again she got on a train and started to Chicago to get Mr. Wolgast right by the ear. Mrs. Wolgast has been doing all the Wolgast talking of late and this is one time she is going to be heeded.

Old Sam Langford is getting young again. At least, he wasn't too old to battle Jim Buttle in New Orleans the other night. Sam has a way of finally eliminating the common enemy though they may have met twenty times. This is the second time that Sam has blasted the hopes of James J. Buckley. On a former occasion Sam hit Mister Gunboat Smith, late of our own navy, right on the chin-chin and Mister Gunboat Smith, who went down on his ear, to dream of his days of flying fish and anchor weighing. When the Gunner was spiked by Joseph Coffey, Buckley bundled him up and sent him off to the Springs to get his second wind. In the meantime Joe roped Willis and declared that he had another world-beater. And then, along came Sam.

That old familiar play entitled "He hasn't a thing but his glove and a prayer," has long been associated with baseball. Should Jack Dillon, or, to be exact, Ernest Cutler Price, the bridling, long bone-crushing, middleweight of Indianapolis, be given a chance at Jess Willard, the saying will be transferred to the ring and Dillon will wheel into action with gloves and a prayer. Jack has said prayer in his corner prior to every ring battle in which he has engaged.

Plans are under way for the staging of a series of races to decide the amateur auto racing championship of the United States during the coming season. It is proposed to hold races at various speedway distances in the south, east, middle and far west with the winners to meet in a national title race late in the fall. Entrants must drive their own cars and be amateur in the full sense of the word.

Jack Bulger, the man who brought Charley Weinert to the front, has turned his attentions to the feather weight class. Jack now says that Eddie Morgan is THE greatest featherweight in the world, and to prove it he has matched him with the daddy of that class, the Hon. Jawn Kilbane of Cleveland. Oh-ho-ho. Morgan is fast, but not the knocker-out that Jay is by any means. Still, strange things have happened in the ring.

Frank Gotch, undefeated heavy-weight wrestling champion, has agreed to return to the wrestling game again for a match Feb. 22 at San Francisco with Ed. Santel. Gotch must throw Santel twice within an hour. Gotch has turned down offers for matches with Joe Stetcher, the Nebraska phenom, and others.

Frank Chance's appearance with the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league club when the season opens will be his first in any capacity with a minor league club. The Peerless Leader jumped direct from college to the Cubs. He was a catcher then and later took the first base job at the suggestion of Frank Selee.

Dominick Tortorich, New Orleans promoter mentioned in connection with the proposed Fulton-Willard battle, is said to have remarked that he is running a boxing arena and not a cheese factory. We bet he'd stand for a cheese factory if it drew a big enough crowd.

Australian friends of American horsemen hand out the tip that there isn't easy picking in the antipodes for United States drivers despite the fact that the races there are won in around about 2:30. Many trotting there can do the mile under American rules in close to two minutes. The explanation for the apparently slow time is that standing starts are used there and that takes about 10 seconds from the time of the race. Other races are handicap affairs of different lengths. American horses aren't trained for these handicap events or standing starts.

Despite the fact that the impression has been created in Chicago that the Cubs will win the National league pennant, there are few of the managers of the old league who believe that Tinker can pilot the Cubs to the front and keep them there. There are those who insist that the present aggregation will not be as strong as the one which Roger Bresnahan had in the field last season, and that the team will be lucky if it finishes as well up in the race as it did in the 1915 campaign. It is not believed that Tinker has strengthened his forces. In fact, the claim is made that he has weakened his team by some changes he has made. Tinker, however, figures that he has a stronger team than any of his rivals and that it stands a good chance of leading the race from start to finish.

BELOIT'S MAYOR TO TALK AT SESSION OF BEAVERS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Wis., Feb. 17.—Between forty and fifty delegates are expected to attend the first annual convention of deputies of the Beaver Reserve fraternity to be held here tomorrow. The session will be held in the assembly chamber. The following are on the program for talks: Dr. A. D. Campbell, Richard Center; Mrs. E. C. Alvord, Washington; George W. Parsons, Appleton; Pauline Loven, Merrill; E. S. Hunt, Endeavor; Albert Helmenan, Milwaukee; Mrs. Florence Turney, Delavan; Dr. E. L. Mason, Eau Claire; Mayor H. W. Adams, Beloit, and S. A. Oscar of Madison.

CATTLEMEN TO SETTLE THEIR PROBLEMS AT TEXAS MEET

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Amarillo, Tex., Feb. 17.—Buyers and sellers of cattle from all over the United States will meet here March 7 and 8 to discuss the cattle marketing situation and devise ways and means of protecting the producer. Cattlemen declare that the cattle market is controlled by a few wealthy packers and capitalists of the United States. They say these men's methods are damaging the cattle industry. The meeting will discuss plans for improving the marketing situation.

TO BUILD AN ADDITION TO HOSPITAL AT MADISON

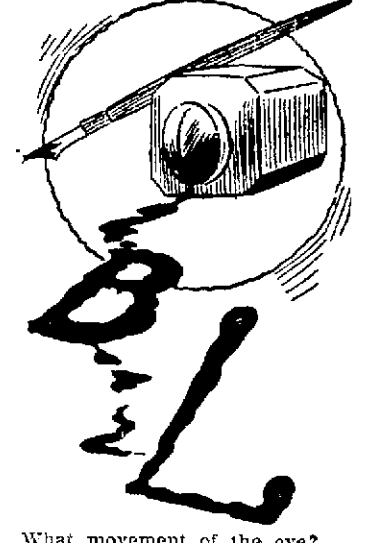

Madison, Wis., Feb. 17.—Plans for an addition to the Madison General hospital here have been drawn and a campaign will be started soon to secure pledges for the erection of the building. The new wing will cost about $50,000 and will be used exclusively for obstetrical purposes. Dr. R. H. Jackson said that he would give $1,000 to start the campaign for the new addition.

FLOOD CONTROL.

The extent to which floods sap the resources of the country is realized by the general public during the spring period when the rivers are rampaging. It is like the man who wouldn't mend his roof in rainy weather, as he would then get wet, and he wouldn't mend it in pleasant weather, as he didn't need it then.

The floods of 1913 did $200,000,000 damage to Ohio and Indiana alone. Annually the Mississippi and other rivers are turned into raging torrents, converting fertile farms into sand banks, and making prosperous cities fight for existence.

Little progress toward a solution seems to be made. Competent observers say the cost of protecting the Mississippi valley would be far greater than the river commission's estimate of $157,500,000. Some engineers favor levees, others believe in reservoirs. In all this conflict of opinion little is done.

The obstacles to the reservoir system are suggested in the report of one authority recently noticed. He said it would cost $75,000,000 to build basins to hold the water that passes down the flooded Mississippi in one day. That makes no provision for forty-eight other days of the usual flood period.

The building of levees reclaims valuable soils, and adds to the wealth of the country. But the public wants to feel sure, in so far as the government and states spend money for this purpose, that they and not private speculators shall get the returns of the improvement.

People living along most river banks say floods have increased within recent years, due commonly to forest cutting about sources. Probably the flood question will never be solved until there is extensive tree planting and forest growth about the upper reaches of the great streams.

GOOD POLICY.

When William Jennings Bryan endeavored to settle the long standing dispute with Colombia relative to injury sustained when the Republic of Panama was seized from its territory without their consent and the United States bought the canal rights from the baby republic, there was a hue and cry the nation over that the twenty-five millions that was to be paid was by far too large a sum to pay for the friendship of our sister South American republic. Now congress has cut this amount down to fifteen millions, and the nation, which looks at the question with cool, common sense, says:

"Blackmail! the Colonel will probably still call the new form of the Colombia treaty, though the lump sum to be paid is reduced to $15,000,000, and the expressions of regret for the strained relations between Bogota and Washington are made 'mutual.' If on these terms we could get the dropping of the claims, which Colombia has urged for thirteen years, with a restoration of friendship, we ought to consider ourselves fortunate to pay up and say nothing is hardly manly, when the paying up is itself a confession of wrongdoing. In point of fact, the general comment at Washington upon the treaty in the shape in which the senate committee has reported it is that it will by no means satisfy Colombia. Yet, even with the changes made, the republican minority in the senate will probably not allow it to receive approval. Even in Taft's time the administration was willing to pay Colombia $10,000,000 for nothing more than her stipulations and reservations in any canal according to the treaty of 1846. The only alternative to a just voluntary settlement is arbitration."

IS TRANSPARENT.

Although the administration has made a desperate effort to disguise the real purpose of the new shipping bill for which it stands sponsor, the disguise is too thin to deceive the chambers of commerce of the United States, the far-reaching, non-partisan business organization which so severely condemned the Wilson-McAdoo shipping bill of a year ago. The chambers of commerce call attention to the bad faith of the administration in appealing for the enactment of a law which would create a "shipping commission" similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and which would exercise over marine shipping supervision similar to that the Interstate Commerce Commission exercises over land transportation, and then proposes to put on this board two members of the president's cabinet, Messrs. McAdoo and Daniels.

The proposed bill, which is cordially backed by President Wilson, is clearly seen by the chambers of commerce to be merely another determined grasp for power by McAdoo. In view of the fact that it was fundamentally distrustful of McAdoo, which killed the shipping bill a year ago, a distrust shared alike by democrats and republicans, it would appear that the new shipping bill had little chance of enactment. The chambers of commerce also point out that the presence of the administration that the government would not be engaged directly in shipping is mere pretense, in view of the wording of the new McAdoo-Wilson bill. If there is to be a shipping commission it must be non-partisan and as far divorced from politics as is possible.

STIRRED UP.

"Uncle Sam reclined upon a divan in the drawing room of his luxurious apartment. A servant entered, at his signal, with the evening papers," says "Life."

"What's happened today?" asked Uncle Sam.

"A few factories have been bombed," said the servant. "Several thousand women and children have been drowned, the government has been insulted, the Capitol has been partially destroyed."

"Oh, yes, yes—but anything of importance?"

"A foreign power has detained our other merchant vessel, causing us a loss of four dollars and thirty-one cents money."

The old gentleman leaped to his feet.

"Enough of this lawlessness!" he roared. "Four dollars and thirty-one cents! in money! Before heaven!—and one could not mistake the determination that animated the man—before heaven, I swear that I shall give this foreign power no rest neither by day nor night, until I have recovered, with legal interest, my four dollars and thirty-one cents!"

The question is asked what has become of the old time farmer who used to get up at 4 a. m. to milk the cows?

The movement against fraudulent advertising causes lots of commotion in some quarters, but there isn't the slightest flutter among retail merchants that do business close to the people whom they supply.

Fred Keister Says:

One of our exchanges says that a Colorado postmaster who was detected in the act of hugging a lady in the postoffice, was reported to the department at Washington and his dismissal requested. A reply was given to the effect that there was no rule of the department which prohibited a postmaster from hugging a woman who wanted to be hugged, so long as it did not interfere with the carrying of his duties. And that reminds us of one time, when we were postmaster of this burg, the wife came in the front door just in time to see our engineering arms about a swell bit of calico. Did she notify the department? Not so you could notice it. When she got through with us she notified the driver of the ambulance.

Proof.

It was rush hour in a local cafeteria, one of these quick lunch places where you help yourself and grab a chair and use the same for the chair as a table. A rush feeder grabbed a slice of pie and popped out a chair. Then he remembered that he needed coffee and he dashed over to the service counter. When he returned with his coffee his chair was occupied by another hurry-up diner. "Excuse me," said the first man, "but that is my chair."

"How do you know it is your chair?" demanded the occupant in a surly tone.

"Because I can prove it," stated the first man.

"How can you prove it?" asked the occupant.

"By the seat of your trousers," was the reply. "You are sitting on my pie."

VITAL STATISTIC RECORDS IN HOLLAND ARE GIVEN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Hague, Netherlands, Feb. 17.—The "war baby," about which there was so much talk in England at an earlier stage of the war, is not unknown in Holland. While the Netherlands are not actually at war, an army of over 500,000 men has been quartered in all parts of the country since August 1, 1914. The official statistics just issued, consequently show that there was an increase in the number of illegitimate births in the first ten months of last year, although not a considerable one and not recorded in every province, two or three of the provinces even showing a decrease as compared with 1914.

Another point of interest: connected with the war is that a small number of marriages have taken place in this country since the first days of the mobilization, particularly in the southern provinces, which adjoin Belgium and have therefore seen most of war's ravages.

In several other features of its vital statistics, Holland is no exception to the general modern tendency. There has been a gradual fall in the birth rate, an improvement year by year of the mortality rate, and a steady increase in the number of divorces. As regards the births since 1849 the highest rate met with is 37.1 per thousand, in 1876. After that the figure steadily declined to 27.8 in 1911, but it shows a slight rise for 1912, 1913 and 1914, presumably in connection with an abnormally big infant mortality rate in 1911.

The death rate of 12.30 per thousand in 1912 and 1913 has never been so low before, and notwithstanding the somewhat less favorable figures of 1914, the average for the years 1911 to 1914, viz., 12.57, is still considerably below the figures for 1910—12.55.

The divorces per thousand married couples have risen from 0.10 in the decade 1840 to 1850 to .76 in 1900 and 1910, 0.88 in 1912 and finally 1.02 in 1914. As regards the marriages, the legal one, which is only sought in religious Holland in 50 out of every hundred of these. The main marriage ceremony in this country is always the Burgomaster or his deputy at the town hall after which the married couple with their friends drive to church if they are so inclined. Deaths were responsible for an increase of 1.59 per cent in the total population of the Netherlands in that year, the flood of Belgian refugees and others into the country on account of the war, caused a further increase of the population by as much as 0.45 per cent.

Quick results—that's everybody's experience with want ads.

FACULTY DOMINATION ROUSES BELOIT MEN; BITTER FIGHT IS ON

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Beloit college students are again active in seeking to end alleged domination by the college faculty of student activities and to secure some definite understanding with the school heads as to the progress in the future of affairs in which the student body considers itself vitally interested.

First evidences of the now almost periodical or annual aggressiveness on the part of the college men arrived in Janesville today in the form of a mysterious and now college paper entitled "The Beloit Student." Former Beloit men here received the paper in the morning mail with a separate announcement, "We are going to hold a meeting at the chapel this morning. The faculty is to be invited. The result of the meeting will determine whether or not the enclosed publication is to be continued with its propaganda for students' rights or whether a formal demand will be made upon the college heads for those principles which the student body seeks. Compliance of the faculty will result in the discontinuation of this new paper."

Vol. 1, No. 1 of the Beloit Student appeared yesterday. Where it came from, who edited it, etc., etc., is not known. Its editorial column announces that it is edited by the students of Beloit College and published by their secret press. Editorially it says, "Every one of you (Beloit students) are on its staff."

Under an editorial "Let Us Demand Our Rights," the "Student" says: "Freedom of speech long since became our sacred privilege. What are we coming to, that this is no longer a fact? Let us arise and cast off the shackles of unjust suppression. Let us demand those prerogatives which are rightfully ours."

Reference to the question, "Is Not Beloit College Being Run By an Outcasted Faculty?" is made. The "Student" asks why it is that Beloit fails to keep some of its best instructors, and under another editorial, "The Ranks Seem Closed," it says: "A young instructor has to shake his person, his faculty and fawn, curb his enthusiasm and wait fifteen years before the college recognizes his efforts and rewards them. Young free-spirited instructors can do nothing. If they say anything they are frowned on by the powerful inner circle (the latter in big black type) and they tremble for their daily bread. Why, we ask you, do our good, young instructors leave?"

The three year rule in athletics also comes in for a scathing rebuke by the "Student's" editor. The "Students" campaign for a great freshman class, which fell down last fall, is also attacked and the reason of the failure traced through the poor showing of Beloit's athletic teams, then the three year rule and finally to the door of the faculty who inaugurated the system, hoping as it were, a similar law of the Big Nine conference. The main purpose of the fight opened by the students is for a greater participation and management in affairs wherein the student body is interested to a greater degree than the faculty.

ELSE IS FINED $25 BY JUDGE MAXFIELD

Makes Plea in Court Which Does Not Admit His Guilt.—Amended Complaint Filed in Case.

Arthur Else, through his attorney, entered a plea, nolo contendere, to a new complaint filed in the municipal court yesterday afternoon at four o'clock and paid a fine of $25.00 and costs, the total amounting to $27.50. The plea entered by the defendant in the prosecution is one which, without actually admitting guilt, subjects him to all the consequences of a plea of guilty. It was stated by legal authorities that such a plea cannot be used as incriminating evidence in any further, or other, criminal prosecution.

An amended complaint was filed by the district attorney in which it was alleged that Else did offer for sale, and sell butter at the time specified in the original complaint that contained adulteration of an excess amount of moisture and water, contrary to the state law. No other charges of adulteration were included by the state.

Very strenuous regulations have been adopted by the dairy and food commissioner under Chapter 597 of the laws of 1915 which authorize him to not less than ten percent of the fat of fresh or ripened milk or cream, for making butter and in a pamphlet recently put out by the dairy and food commissioner, butter is defined to mean "a clean product made by gathering the fat of fresh or ripened milk or cream into a mass with or without salt or added coloring matter and containing not less than eighty-two and one-half percent of milk fat. There are a great many other rules and regulations respecting dairy products which it behooves all makers of cheese and butter, whether in the factory or at home, to comply with. The dairy and food department are becoming more and more vigilant in their inspections of these dairy products and a violator of these rules, although such violation may be entirely unintentional, may render himself liable to prosecution.

Ladies free Friday night at rink.

VETERAN RAILROAD ENGINEER SUCCUMBS

James Walsh Passed Away This Morning After a Few Days' Illness With Pneumonia.

James Walsh, the second oldest engineer in point of service on the Northwestern railroad, passed away at ten thirty o'clock this morning at his home at 330 Linn street, after an illness since Saturday with pneumonia.

Mr. Walsh was born on Feb. 28, 1848, at Watertown, Wis., and came to Janesville to reside some thirty years ago. He entered the railroad service as a young man and earned an enviable reputation as a conscientious and faithful employee, loyal, reliable and energetic. During the last few years he has been engineer on what was known as the "accommodation run" between Janesville and Chicago. On account of his advanced years he had been laying off since Christmas.

Among his friends and fellow employees Mr. Walsh was held in the highest regard. He was a public spirited citizen who had the welfare of his city and community at heart. He was active in fraternal circles, being a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, a charter member of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin and a member of Carroll Council No. 596 Knights of Columbus.

His wife, four daughters and one son survive. The daughters are Mrs. Joseph H. Scholler, Mrs. Edward F. Henning and the Misses Elizabeth and Alvina Walsh, all of this city. The son, Arthur M. Walsh, resides at Platteville.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mrs. Frances W. Hayner.
Mrs. Frances W. Hayner died at her home on Milton avenue at eleven o'clock last night, in the seventy-fourth year of her age. A stroke of paralysis struck her a month ago, rendering her practically helpless and badly disturbing her mind. She failed to respond to treatment, and death came as a glad relief. Mrs. Hayner was a devoted wife and mother, and a life of service to her community. She was a member of the Baptist church, but for the past few years has been so closely confined at home that she was prevented from being an active worker.

She was more than a professor, because her character was rich in possession. She possessed a faith which was sublime and her vision which reached across the veil was clear that it inspired confidence, and thus she entered into rest. The record of a good life, noted for loyalty and devotion, lingers as a pleasant memory.

A brother, Addison Bryant of Racine, remains as the surviving member of the family. Miss Lucetta La-thrope of Springfield, Mass., a niece, was with Mrs. Hayner during the last week of her illness. Funeral services conducted by Rev. J. C. Hazen, will be held at the home, 404 Milton avenue, at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The remains will rest at Oak Hill.

Charles Tarrant.
Funeral services for Charles Tarrant, who dropped dead from heart failure at the Chicago & Northwestern railroad station Wednesday morning, will be held from the home, 404 Jackson street, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. P. H. Brigham will officiate. Interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

NEW YORK YANKEES TO START THE BALL

"Wild Bill" Donovan Will Have a Hard Task Before Him to Trim Down the New York Americans.

(Special to this Gazette.)
New York, Feb. 17.—The 1916 baseball season will get under way officially within a few days, with the departure of the battery material of the New York American league team for the spring training camp at Macon, Ga.

Donovan has seventeen pitchers under contract for observation this spring and four catchers. Two of his veterans, Ray Caldwell and Ray Fisher, will not go to Macon until the regulars assemble. A few cool infielders and outfielders who were bought last year but who did not come up for trial the closing weeks of the season will be at Macon when Donovan arrives. Germany Schaefer, Duke Farrell and Joe Kelley will go out with the expeditionary force and will assist Donovan in eliminating the chaff from the wheat.

More than fifty players are still on the reserve list of the Yankees. This number may be whittled down some before the end of the month, but it is likely that most of them will go south. Messrs. Ruper and Huston recruited many youngsters at great expense last season. It appeared as if the baseball war might continue indefinitely. Of course they are anxious to unload the surplus to the best advantage. But having claim to so many players will not assist Donovan in giving every recruit a chance to prove his worth.

Captain Huston and Colonel Ruper are willing to go to even further lengths to trim down the club. For years the team has been especially weak in the line of left-handed pitching. Last year Donovan had to worry along without a single southpaw. He will have nine left-handers in training this spring. Culp was one of the best in the Federal league in 1916. Mogridge showed rare promise last season. It would not be surprising, however, if another southpaw were added. The local owners have been advised to get one who figured prominently in the Federal league last season.

Leslie Numanaker is the only veteran catcher left over from the Farrell regime. Alexander won his spurs the latter half of last season. Schaefer and Walters, the other two catchers, are more or less experiments. If in the general process of unloading later on some rival club puts a fair price on some veteran catcher, it is likely that the Yankee management might be in a mood to talk business.

Hard Luck.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME ...

"What to a construction camp?" asked Helen, feigning just enough amazement.

"Why not? Talk about Rhineland, er's steam shovel! I'll show you shovels that can do everything but vote. Come on along."

For an effective moment she hesitated. "I couldn't possibly," she declared with decision, but she allowed a note of regret to linger an instant

1—Seagru and the Engineer Glared at Each Other. 2—His Wines She Persistently Declined. 3—"Rhinelanders Has Just Gone to Oceanside." 4—Storm Is Discharged.

In the tone of her explanation and planned around. "No one here, you know."

"Well, but what time do you get off?" asked Seagru feverishly.

"Oh, not for a long time yet." His hopes were burgeoning fast.

"See here, Helen, come over and take a camp dinner with me. Come, do. I'll show you what can be done with our preparation."

She regarded him with an expression that indicated how completely such a proposal shocked her. She struggled an instant with the thought of it. Then she rejected the invitation; yet with enough indecision to invite a renewal. For the moment Helen was a heartless angler, and Seagru, deluded by vanity was unsuspectingly playing fish. Before he left—in the highest spirits he had known for many a day—he had, to his astonishment, secured Helen's promise to dine with him that night in camp. And at the appointed time she was ready.

The night was warm and a moon, rising full and into a clear sky, flooded the landscape. And after Helen's uneasiness at the strangeness of her situation had worn off, she was able throughout the trying hour with Seagru in his hut to wear her mask of languid interest successfully. The table was served with surprising delicacies and a plentiful array of wines was in evidence. Yet, to an innocent bourgeois, a whole hour never went so slowly, nor was appetite ever more reluctant than that of Seagru's guest. Though she went through the form of eating and assumed a carefree air, his food choked her. His wines she persistently declined; but that did not dismay Seagru, who drank quite enough for two.

Where could the survey be, now? was the question recurring always to Helen's mind. Toward the close of the dinner, Seagru, rising, unlocked his desk for a flask of Chateau. There, lying in the corner exactly where she had seen it, Helen again beheld the survey, a blue print beside it. Seagru was pawky enough to close and lock the desk after he had taken the flask out. How, she asked herself, was she to get that desk open again?

Seagru dismissed his serving man, and this did not allay Helen's uneasiness for herself. She did not want to be left alone a minute with him now; things were getting too complicated. But could she in some way, get into the desk?

Rising, she said she would clear the table a little. Taking hold of the flask he had just taken from the desk and holding out her hand with a smile she asked him for his keys. Seagru was in no position to refuse so intimate a request. With an air of camaraderie he handed them over and Helen pushed back the cover of the desk. But as she did so Seagru threw his arms around her. She struggled indignantly, but could not get away. For a moment there was a fierce struggle. Then with a superhuman effort she tore herself free, caught up the first thing she could lay her hand on—it happened to be a bronze match tray—and struck Seagru across the forehead.

He went completely over, leaving Helen horror-stricken at what she had done. She listened. Outside she heard no sound. Seizing the blue print that lay under her hand, she gained the door and ran out just as Seagru regained his feet. She had resolved to flag the Limited. Hardly touching the earth, she dashed to the station, hurried to the key and telegraphed Rhinelanders:

"Have blue print of survey. Will be on Limited. HELEN."

It was not too soon. Through the window she saw Seagru rushing down the platform. She slammed the office door shut, and locked it. Seagru threw himself viciously against it. The lock held, but she must get away at once. There was a window in the freightroom, and she ran into the freightroom. Seagru had snatched up a stone. He reached the operator's window, only to see Helen, who had sprung through the freightroom window, running up the track. He followed her at top speed. Intent on escaping, she gave no thought to where he was running. "It was only to get away from her hated enemy and save what she had so hardly regained. Helter-skelter through a grove of scattered oaks that fringed the hills above the sea, on and on she ran, until breath and strength were deserting her, but at every turn her detested pursuer was fast upon her heels. Between his lunging footfalls she could hear his panting breaths, and the clearness of the night gave her little chance to elude his savage pursuit. She realized she was running across what had been her own father's estate. The ocean spread suddenly below her. She had reached Signal bay and the precipitous cliffs that frowned high above it. Like a frightened fawn she ran up the rocks and down, only to hear Seagru breathing maledictions close behind, and with the distance steadily lessening between her and certain capture. Brought at last to bay, she darted down the cliffs to find a hiding place. Not a nook or cranny offered a hope of concealment, and a mistle where she trod meant certain death. Panting and bewildered, she heard Seagru climbing down the ledge on which she had found a narrow foothold. Her escape was cut off, and Seagru descended triumphantly toward her. She warned him back.

"Give me that blue print!" he shouted with an oath.

"Keep away from me," Helen panted. "You're a wretch. I'll never give it to you. I'll die first. Don't you dare come down here. I'll drag you over the cliff if I have to go over myself."

Nothing daunted, he came on. There was but one chance left to get away and, unhesitating, she took it. Turning, just as he thought he had her in his power, she sprang from where she stood on the edge of the precipice far out over the ocean below. He stood spellbound. She struck with a great splash. He saw her come up, strike out and sink again, as if helpless. But he knew her unquenchable determination, her resource and her daring, and was shrewd enough to watch the surface of the bay closely. Sure enough, in a little while he could see her, after swimming a distance under water, regain the surface and with long, powerful strokes swim away.

At no great distance from where she had plunged into the bay a speed launch lay at anchor. Helen recognized the boat; it had, in truth, once been her own, and she had named it The Spiderwater. It belonged now to the owners of her father's estate, but she believed she might borrow it once more. Seagru, impatient with rage, and following her down the shore, saw her reach the launch and climb resolutely up over the gunwale into the cockpit.

TRIANGLE PICTURES FICTIONAL HISTORY

"Martyrs of the Alamo" Feature and "Her Painted Hero" the Two-reel Comedy at Princess.

Does the famous old-time slogan, "Remember the Alamo," remind you of any event of historical importance? If your school history did not impress you sufficiently to connect the events at that memorial period, the picture shown yesterday at the Princess theatre surely could not help but stamp upon your mind the thrilling drama acted in the early days in Texas. It was a picture of real facts but interesting and intensely exciting.

Here Hamilton and Polly Moran were brought out in many picturesque scenes and incidents in the Keystone burlesque of stage life, "Her Painted Hero."

"Martyrs of the Alamo" and "Her Painted Hero," will be shown again this evening at the Princess.

"BIRTH OF A NATION" STRONG PRODUCTION

D. W. Griffith's Masterpiece Still Grips Audiences and Holds Them Spellbound.

"Tonight marks the last appearance of 'The Birth of a Nation' at Myers theatre. Throughout the past four days it has swayed and thrilled every audience that has witnessed it. Without question it is the most wonderful photoplay ever produced, a truly American production, made possible only by American genius. It should be witnessed by every red-blooded American.

ARE DRAWING JURY FOR LORIMER TRIAL

Will Require Several Weeks to Secure Panel to Try La Salle Bank Failure Case.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Selection of a jury to try William Lorimer on charges growing out of the failure of the La Salle-Savings Trust and Savings Bank, began today before Judge Dever, in Chicago criminal court. It is estimated from two to three weeks will be required to complete the panel. Arguments of Lorimer's counsel to consolidate all indictments against him are expected to precede the examination of veniremen.

C. B. Munday, who was vice president of the La Salle bank at the time the acts alleged in the Lorimer indictments were said to have been committed, recently was convicted of conspiracy in connection with failure of the institution.

THRILLS AND COLOR IN "THE UNKNOWN"

Skilled Players Make Picture Play An Appealing Production.

Lou Tellegen, Theodore Roberts and Dorothy Davenport vied with each other for popular hero favor in "The Unknown," at the Apollo yesterday.

Theodore Roberts is a commanding figure as "Devil Destiny" and quite sweeps into the hero's role in such a way as to engrave himself on the observer's perceptions. In contrast with his dominance is the quiescence of Lou Tellegen's role. That handsome debonaire hero comes upon hard lines at every turn but he comes up smiling and is admiration winning. Dorothy Davenport is a very charming little heroine.

It is a workmanlike picture, telling an unusual story briskly through the medium of forceful characterizations by skilled players.

Besides these drug-gists guaranteeing "that it will be the best remedy ever used," it will likewise be found the most economical, because one bottle (50 cents) makes a full pint (128 teaspoonful) of the most excellent medicine for any of the above affections, when mixed at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. It makes as much, or more, than would cost you $2.00 to $3.00 of almost any of the ordinary ready-made kinds, sold in bottles holding only 24 to 32 teaspoonful. You will be the sole judge, yourself and under the same positive guarantee to give you such a "Money Back" guarantee which the druggists make for the famous Asthamor. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

60 DAISY DEAN

Marc MacDermott, the genial star, was born on July 29, under the broad smile of Leo, hence, according to astrologers, he should—

Be of a courageous temperament and of a jovial, sympathetic, and friendly disposition.

Not be afraid of anybody—woof! Be able to make anybody believe anything he might choose to tell.

Have a tendency to fly off the handle under sufficient provocation, but make things unpleasantly interesting for those around him.

Be generous—when prosperous.

Have great respect for the law, in fact, he has a tendency to be a lawbreaker.

Always have honorable intentions, but be frequently misunderstood.

Have a healthy physique and be capable of enduring much hardship.

Walk with a quick, buoyant step—like this: Tra-la-thump, thump, thump—tra-la!

ELEPHANT GOES TO BED LIKE HUMAN

Anna May, the two-year-old baby elephant gives promise of becoming one of the cleverest performing elephants in the country. Within a few days, under her trainer's patient instructions, she has been taught a new and novel act.

Entirely alone Anna May enters the scene, kneels beside her bed, blows out the candle, then lying in the bed she carefully covers herself with a sheet, yawns and goes to sleep.

LILLIAN'S DIMPLES WOULDN'T BE SEEN

Lillian Walker, the "dimpled" star, has received an offer from one of the big knitting mills to keep her supplied with stockings for the rest of her life if she will comply with their request. In a film recently Miss Walker's limbs were shown in a pair of green stockings, and the company who made the proposition to her, another such picture to wear their trademark. If Lillian agrees, this will be one picture where her dimples will not figure.

Virginia Pearson describes a vampire as the dead undead, a woman who lives on the blood of youthful victims.

The Madison Democrat praised the solo and feature numbers warmly, particularly the Mendota crew song, which was "acted" for the first time on the stage.

The State Journal was enthusiastic over the informality of the concert, and said the traits feature added greatly to the success of the evening.

The last few years in musical circles, said the Journal, "have failed to bring out anything as delightfully informal as the Mendota concert."

The Daily Cardinal—the student publication—also commented on the informality of the program. "The informality of the program was a decided change from past performances and its reception by the audience was its own reward. The boat song proved a big hit."

The Wisconsin clubs this year have entirely abandoned the out and dried style of stiff glee club programs. The first part of the program introduces the young men in smoking jackets and bath robes just as they are apt to be found in their rooms at college. In the second part, after a quick change, they appear in immaculate evening dress. The entire program is marked with a spirit of informal friendliness, which the audience so far have been quite quick to catch.

The singing of favorite old college songs of many colleges is a pleasing feature of the program.

MERCHANTS READY FOR PAY UP WEEK

Janesville Business Men Complete Plans for Clearing Away Debts During Coming Week.

Janesville merchants have completed their plans for clearing away debts during the coming week. The National Pay-Up Week, Feb. 21 to 25, it now appears that the success of the undertaking lies with the creditors of the local business houses.

The merchants have secured posters and banners and are planning to use the mail extensively in making next week, Pay-Up Week, a success here. Considerable advertising matter is to be released to keep the fact before the public that prosperity reigns when everybody pays his bills promptly and permits the man he owes to do like him.

On Monday merchants will present their accounts to customers with expectations of clearing away outstanding bills during the week. The idea was more of a community than a national nature, a great number of towns reported successful Pay-Up Weeks.

In the little city of Waukon, Ia., over $100,000 was cleared from the merchants' books in one week's time and in Wilson, N. C., a city of about 7,000 population, the merchants succeeded in collecting over $70,000 during their pay-up week, which occurred in December, 1915. In Grand Forks, N. Dak., the secretary of the Merchants' association says: "Nothing in the way of organization work has ever been undertaken here that has aroused the people to the extent and so favorably as Pay-Up Week." At Hume, Mo., where Pay-Up Week was held in June, 1915, merchants report splendid success.

Janesville is not, however, interested just now so much in what these towns that have had individual Pay-Up Weeks have accomplished, as it is in what is to be accomplished during that week, which will depend entirely upon the interest of the Janesville public and the publicity that is given the movement.

A MASTER WORK OF LITERATURE.

During the remarkable distribution of "Heart Throb," the greatest collection of prose and verse ever published, we have come into personal contact with many of our readers. This is one feature that has been especially agreeable to us, since we have come to know that they are among the most refined and cultured classes of this community. That we have been able to render them a service, and provide them a means of enjoyment that will last for years, is also a matter of mutual congratulation. Unless we are greatly mistaken, the number on hand will barely satisfy the community to be presented. These latter are printed daily in this paper and our office is thronged with the crowds seeking the books which constitute veritably a master work of literature.

TO ESTABLISH A LARGE CATTLE RANCH IN PANAMA

Panama, Feb. 17.—The establishment of a large cattle ranch has been decided by the Supply Department of the Panama Canal and contracts have been let for the clearing of 4,000 acres of land in the vicinity of New Culebra on the line of the Panama Railroad. When the land has been cleared of the rather heavy jungle growth, it will be seeded in guinea grass which furnishes excellent grazing for cattle. The ranch will be used for fattening cattle that have been purchased in Colombia and Costa Rica for the Supply Department. These animals usually are not properly fattened when they arrive on the Isthmus and this purpose the ranch is to serve.

It is proposed to purchase a herd of 10,000 cattle which will be fattened on the ranch. As these are consumed the department plans to buy at the rate of 1,000 head a month.

WAR TO CONTINUE TWO YEARS LONGER SAYS T. A. EDISON

Alies Will Win in the End, Is Inventor's Prediction—Favors Suffrage and Prohibition.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

West Orange, N. J., Feb. 17.—(Thomson) Edison celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday by working hard in his laboratory as he has done almost every day for many years. The event was celebrated by his friends and associates, however, and he was tendered a banquet by the Illuminating Engineers' society, of which Charles P. Steinmetz, president of the society, declared: "Edison has done more than any other man to promote the art and science of engineering."

Reporters remembered the birthday, Edison called on the famous inventor. Edison said the following things: "The war will last two years longer. The allies will win because of their ability to get the things necessary to carry on the war properly."

"The United States will not become involved in the conflict. The worst that can possibly happen will be the breaking off of diplomatic relations. There should be a law against any one under twenty-one years smoking cigarettes. Mr. Edison would prefer to see a boy with a revolver rather than a cigarette."

"Women will vote, and there should be a national amendment to that effect. The instincts of women are good and they are bound to have their voice in government."

"Give 'em Drinks, But Weak Ones. Mr. Edison spoke at length on prohibition."

"Man isn't perfect yet and you cannot take alcohol away from him all at once," he asserted. "If you do he'll resort to beer. Beer has about 4 per cent of alcohol. Cut down the percentage to 2 or 1%. Let men drink that for twenty years or so and then cut it down to 1 per cent. Cut out all whiskey and strong alcoholic drinks at once. The theory is that every man's stomach is about the same size. Beer with 2 per cent alcohol will never make the average man drunk, because he wouldn't be able to eat enough in his stomach. A man gets merry on a little alcohol, but more makes him ugly. Cut down the alcohol and he will not get ugly. It must be done through federal regulation, though. Prohibition is going to become worldwide. A practical limit should also be established for treating."

"As to eating, he said: 'Cut your food down to one-third or one-fourth of what you have been eating. I eat three meals a day, but that's habit, and nothing else. But I eat a quarter of what the average man does. I know, because I see it on my own table.'

Doesn't Want Garrison's Job. Mr. Edison declined to comment on the resignation of Secretary Garrison, but when a newspaper man asked him how he would like the job he said:

"It's too slow for me. If Congress will only give the appropriation we need for the Naval Consulting Board Laboratory we will produce such things that it will be ticklish for any nation to tackle this country. There is nothing new in this war—not even gas. What we need is something new."

He conveyed the impression that the victors in the next big war will have thought out some new thing—a laboratory product. He told the reporters he was feeling as young as he had at any time in forty years and expected to accomplish many things before his death.

Dover Is The "Business End" of England Toward the Continent

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—"Dover, where German seaplanes have lately been showering high explosives, might be called the 'business end' of the British Empire toward the continent; for when England wars in Europe her troops set out from Dover's harbor, whence they have gone to Germany, France, Holland, Italy, Spain, and Belgium in centuries past, and whence they are leaving today for an undiminished stream for scores of battlefields distributed clean across the continent from the open ocean to the Black sea," begins a primer on war geography just issued by the National Geographic society at Washington.

The city occupies a narrow break in the famous chalk cliffs, and its harbor is formed by a grand enclosure of the waters of the straits of Dover by more than a mile of piers. The chalk cliffs are honeycombed with military works, hidden guns and batteries and galleries through the rock. The fortifications of this point, where England and continental Europe approach nearest to one another, has been done as thoroughly as military ingenuity can devise. Besides the works built into the cliffs, the harbor is guarded by a modern redoubt, Fort Burgoyne, and other fortification circuits. It has always been a favorite worry with Englishmen to dream of invasion via the straits and Dover.

"So keenly have Englishmen felt about the subject since the days of the Northmen pirates, that they have seriously a project for linking Dover with Calais by tubes under the Channel to France, lest an insidious enemy some day march across into their country under their protecting sea. One company formed for the construction of such a dry-land way between Europe and England did manage to get some lengthy reports made to Parliament, in which the suggestions were advanced that provision must be made, with the construction of such tubes, for their flooding from Dover in case of an outbreak of hostilities between Britannia and any European power. The idea, however, was dropped as a dangerous one."

"Roman shipping visited Dover's port, and probably the Phoenicians before Roman times traded there. The harbor was fortified in the 14th century, and the original defenses have been kept up-to-date ever since. The Battle of Dover was fought off the harbor of the town August 21, 1517. Eustace the Monk, adventurer-pirate and soldier of fortune, aided the English barons against their king, who was severely beaten in this sea-fight by the much smaller Dover fleet. The Battle of Dover ranks as high in the annals of British victories on the sea against odds as that engagement in which the Armada was driven off."

WISCONSIN BASKETBALL FIVE IS WORKING HARD FOR THE ILLINOIS GAME

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Feb. 17.—Wisconsin basketball fivers are working hard for the championship game with Illinois here on Saturday night. Coach Meadwell is working up to the fact that his team must improve at least fifty per cent if a victory is to be realized over the Suckers. Much interest is taken over the showing that Northwestern will make this week in her three conference games with Chicago, Indiana and Purdue. If the purple wins all three contests, it will lead the conference race in percentage, with a big chance to cup the flag. The Badgers must go strong Saturday to trim Illinois and then the final game of the year with Northwestern must be reckoned with. Every indication points to a packed gym on Saturday night. A preliminary game is being planned in which the frosh five will undoubtedly take part.

A GOOD NIGHT-CAP FOR CROUPY CHILDREN.

A little forethought in the care of croupy children will greatly lessen their chances of attacks of croup. At bedtime give each child a teaspoonful of Foley's Honey and Tar. It has a wonderfully soothing, healing effect on the mucous lining of the throat. It cuts the choking phlegm, stops tickling and nervous hacking, and allows quiet, restful sleep. The nightly dose of Foley's Honey and Tar keeps many homes free from croup, saves the children suffering, and spares the parents a needless worry. Keep it always on hand.

WILL GRANT SMALL LOANS TO AID FARMERS OF IRELAND

London, Feb. 17.—The Irish Department of Agriculture has inaugurated the plan of granting loans at a low rate of interest to Irish farmers to enable them in the fall to grind wheat and oats into flour and meal. It is hoped in this way to cope with the enormous quantities of wheat and oats being grown by the Irish farmers in order to meet any shortage of flour.

Plus Five Trademarks from Quaker Oats Packages, Standard Size or Plus Two Trademarks from Quaker Oats Packages, Large Size

This Quaker Cooker

We have supplied perfect double Cookers to over 700,000 homes, to make Quaker Oats more delightful. They are made to our order to bring out the fullness of the flavor and aroma.

Such a Cooker as this, if sold at retail, would cost more than most homes would pay. But our purpose requires it in every home where Quaker Oats are used, so we ourselves supply it.

OUR PURPOSE IS THIS: To create more Quaker Oats users, by making this the best-loved morning dish.

To this end, we use queen grains only in this brand—just the big, plump grains. We get but ten pounds per bushel. That means that two-thirds of the oats as they come to us are discarded in making Quaker Oats. The result is large, luscious flakes. They make this dish doubly-delicious. Yet they cost you no extra price.

These flavory flakes have won the world to Quaker. In a hundred nations this is the favorite brand. Millions of oat lovers send thousands of miles to get it.

Our next object is right cooking, and we offer this Cooker to every home to attain it. But we supply only one to a home.

Get this Cooker next week under this special offer. You want children to delight in this vim-food. You want them to eat an abundance. The way to attain that is to serve Quaker Oats cooked in this Quaker Cooker.

Next Week 75c—But No Longer

Next week's offer is this: Send us five trademarks—the picture of the Quaker—cut from the fronts of five Quaker Oats packages, standard size, or two from the large size. Send with them ONLY 75 CENTS, check or money order preferred, and we will send the Cooker by parcel post, prepaid.

For one week—for next week—we reduce the cash payment considerably.

Ends Dry, Hoarse or Painful Coughs Quickly

A Simple, Home-Made Remedy, Inexpensive but Unquestioned

The prompt and positive results given by this pleasant-tasting, home-made cough syrup has caused it to be used in more homes than any other remedy. It gives almost instant relief and will usually overcome the average cough in 24 hours.

Get 2½ ounces Pinex, 150 cents worth, from any drug store, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—a family supply—of the most effective cough remedy on a par with 54 cents or less. You could buy as much ready-made cough medicine for $2.50. Easily prepared and never spoils. Full directions with Pinex.

The promptness, certainty and ease with which this Pinex Syrup overcomes a bad cough, chest or throat cold is truly remarkable. It quickly loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes a painful cough in a hurry. With a persistent loose cough it stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the annoying hacking.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract rich in ginkgol and is famous the world over for its splendid effect in bronchitis, whooping cough, bronchial asthma and winter coughs.

To avoid disappointment in making this, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"How un-American," said Alix. "It's more than that," said Alan. "It's pre-American."

Alix was thoughtful in her turn. Alan caught her by the arm and turned her toward the west. A yawn was just crossing the disk of the disappearing sun. Alix felt a thrill at his touch. "It's a sweet little picture, isn't it?" she said. "But you mustn't touch me, Alan. It can't be good for us."

"So you feel it too," said Alan, and took his hand from her arm. During the voyage they were much together, not in dark corners but waving their battle in the open—two swimmers that fought each other, forgetting to fight the tide that was bearing them out to sea. Alan was not a pillaneder to snatch an unrequited kiss. To him a kiss was the seal on surrender. But to Alix the game was its own goal. As she had always played it, nobody had ever really won anything. However, it did not take her long to appreciate that in Alan she had an opponent who was constantly getting under her guard and making her feel things—things that were alarming in themselves like the jump of one's heart into the throat or the intoxication that goes with not racing blood.

Alan's power over women was in voice and words. If he had been hideous it would have been the same. With his tongue he carried Alix away and gave her that sense of isolation which lulls a woman into laxity. One night as they sat side by side, a single great rug across their knees, Alan laid his hand under cover on hers. A quiver went through Alix's body. Her closed hand stirred nervously but she did not really draw it away. "Alan," she said, "I've told you not to. Please don't. It's common—this sort of thing."

Alan tightened his grip. "You say it's common," he said, "because you've never thought it out. Lightning was common till somebody thought it out. I sit beside you without touching you and we are in two worlds. I grip your hand—like this—and the abyss between us is closed. While I hold you nothing can come between."

Alix hand opened and settled into his. For a while they sat silent, then Alix recovered herself. "After all," she said, "we're not on a desert island but on a ship with eyes in every corner."

Alan leaned toward her. "But if we were, Alix! If we were on a desert island—you and I—"

For a moment Alix looked into his burning eyes. She felt that there was fire in her own eyes, too—a fire she could not altogether control. She disengaged herself and sprang up. Alan rose slowly and stood beside her. He did not look at her parted lips and hot cheeks; he had suddenly become languid. "That's it," he drawled, "eyes in every corner. I wonder how many morals would stand without other people's eyes to prop them up?"

Towards the end of the voyage Alix faced, wide-eyed, the revelation that the stakes of the game she and Alan had played were body and soul. "Alan," she said one night with drooping head, "I've had enough. I don't want to play any more. I want to quit." She lifted tear-filled eyes to him. The foil of artificiality had been knocked from her hand. She was all woman and defenseless.

Alan felt a trembling in all his limbs. "I want to quit, too, Alix," he said in his low vibrating voice, "but I'm afraid we can't. You see, I'm beaten, too. While I was just in love with your body we were safe enough, but now I'm in love with you. It's the kind of love a man can pray for in vain. No head in it; nothing but heart. Honor and dishonor become mere names. Nothing matters to me but you."

"We Can't Break the Tension, Alix."

misery would have been joy at white heat. She was unmasked at last—but Gerry had not unmasked her. Not once since the day of their engagement had Gerry unmasked himself. Alan was standing with his side to the rail, his eyes leaving her face only to keep track of the promenaders so that no officious friend should take her by surprise. He went on talking. "Our judgment is calling to us to quit but it is calling from days ago," he said. "We wouldn't listen then and it's only the echo we hear now. We can try to quit if you like, but when I am alone I shall call for you, and when you are alone you will call for me. We will always be alone except when we are near each other. We can't break the tension, Alix. It will break us in the end."

The slow tears were still crawling down Alix's cheeks. In all her life she had never suffered so before. She felt that each tear paid the price of all her levity. "Alan," she said with a quick glance at him, "did you know when we began that it was going to be like this?"

"No," he answered, "I have trifled with many women and I was ready to trifle with you. No one had ever driven you and I wanted to drive you. I thought I had divorced passion and love. I thought perhaps you had too. But love is here. I am not driving you. We are being driven."

CHAPTER V

Alix and Alan were in the grip of a fever that is hard to break save through safety and ruin. They were still held apart by generations of sound tradition but against this bulwark the full flood of modern life as they lived it was directed.

It was only a year ago that the table talk one night had turned on what was society's religion and Alan had said, "Society has no religion nowadays; it has given up religion for a corrosive philosophy of nonethics." He had seen clearly then but not clearly enough to save himself. He had played with the corrosive philosophy until he had divorced flesh from the soul and now it was playing with him. He found himself powerless in the grip of his desire for Alix.

With her, things had not gone so far. From the security of the untempted she had watched her chosen world play with fire and only now when temptation assailed her, did she realize the weakness that lies in every woman once her outposts have fallen and her bare heart becomes engaged in the battle. Not many days had passed after their return when Alan's constant attendance upon Gerry's wife became the absorbing center of interest to their part of town life. People said little enough. Their eyes were too wide open watching the headlong rush towards catastrophe.

One early morning Nance sent for Alan. He found her alone. She had been crying. He came to her where she stood by the fire and she turned and put her arms around his neck. She tried to smile but her lips twitched. "Alan," she said, "I want you to go away."

his neck. "You mustn't do that sort of thing to me, Nance. I'm not fit for it." He made her sit down on a great sofa before the fire and sat down beside her. "You remind me today of the most beautiful thing I ever heard said of you—by a spiteful friend."

"What was it?" said Nance, turning her troubled eyes to him. "She said, 'She is only beautiful in her own home.' I never understood it before. It's a great thing to be beautiful in one's own home."

"Oh, Alan," said Nance, catching his hand and holding it against her breast, "it is a great thing. It's the greatest thing in life. That's why I sent for you—because you are wrecking forever your chance of being beautiful in your own home. And worse than that, you are wrecking Alix's chances. You and Alix cannot do this thing. It isn't as though her people and ours were of the froth of the nation. You and she started life with nothing but Puritan to build on. You may have built just playhouses of sand, but deep down the old rock foundation must endure. You must take your stand on that."

Her eyes had been fixed on the fire but now she turned them to his face. Alan sat with head hanging forward, his gaze and thoughts far beyond the confines of the room. Then he shook himself and got up to go. "I wish we could, Nance," he said, gravely and then added half to himself, half to her, "I'll try."

For some days Alan had been prepared to go away and take Alix with him, should she consent. Upon his arrival he had had an interview with McDale & McDale in the course of which that firm opened its eyes and its pocket wider than it ever had before. When he left their offices he had contracted more or less on his own terms and McDale, Junior, said to the Senior, "He's only twenty-six—a boy. How did he beat us?"

"By beating Walton's record first," replied McDale, Senior, "and how he did that time will show."

As he walked slowly back from Nance's, Alan was thinking that after all there was no reason why he should not cut and run—no reason except Alix.

He reached his rooms. As he crossed the threshold he saw that he had stepped on a note that had been dropped through the letter-slip. He picked it up. A thrill went through him as he recognized Alix's handwriting. There was no stamp. It must have been delivered by hand. He tore it open and read: "You said that a moment's notice was all you asked. I will take the Montreal Express with you today."

Alan's blood turned to liquid fire. The note conjured before him a vision of Alix. He crushed it and held it to his lips and laughed—not jeeringly but in pure, uncontrolled excitement.

It was not a coincidence that Gerry had sought out Alix at the very hour that Nance was summoning Alan. Gerry and Nance were driven by the same foreboding of catastrophe. Gerry had felt it first but he had been slow to believe, slower to act. He had no precedent for this sort of thing. His Gerry regretted the words as soon as he had said them but Alix was not angry. She looked at him through narrowed eyes. She speculated on the sensation of being roughly handled by this rock of a man. There was something tremendous and impressive in his anger and struggle for control.

Gerry bit his lips and turned from her. "And Alan, of all men," he went on. "At the words the current of her thoughts was changed. She found herself suddenly on the defensive. "Do you think you are the first woman he has played with and betrayed?" Gerry's lip was curved to a sneer. "A philanderer. A man who surrounds himself with tarnished reputations."

A dull glow came into Alix's cheeks. "Philanderers are of many breeds," she said. "There are those who have the wit to philander with woman and those who can only rise to a whisky or a golf club. Whatever else Alan may be he is not a dime-server."

LOOKING BACKWARD 60 YEARS

An Interesting Bit of History Everybody Should Know

One of the interesting places in Lowell, Mass., is the old apothecary shop on Merrimack street, established in 1827. This location is still a drug store, although of course modernized in many departments. The old prescription books, however, have been preserved and form an interesting record covering nearly a century.

Perhaps one of the most interesting books is that of the year 1855. On one of the pages of this book, that dated June 9th, 1855, is written the original prescription for Father John's Medicine. This prescription was compounded for the Reverend Father John O'Brien at the old drug store on that date, and was so successful in treating Father John's ailment, which was a severe cold and throat trouble, that he recommended the medicine to his friends and parishioners. In going to the drug store and calling for the medicine, they always asked for Father John's Medicine, and in this way the medicine got its name and was advertised.

Father John's Medicine is a safe family remedy for colds, coughs, throat troubles, and as a tonic and body builder, because it does not contain opium, morphine, chloroform, and any other poisonous drugs, or alcohol, but is all pure, wholesome nourishing.

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

A Theory Put Into Practice by Well Known Business Man

J. C. BRADY

"A druggist has many opportunities to make lasting friends of his customers," said Mr. J. C. Brady, popular Rexall Pharmacist of Fall River, Mass. "The very nature of his business draws their confidence for little helpful suggestions on the matter of health. Many people have thanked me for recommending Rexall Orderlies as the best relief for constipation and its resultant ills. Put up in dainty candy tablet form, they are pleasant to the taste and make an ideal laxative for the home—for men, women and children alike."

FORTY YEARS AGO

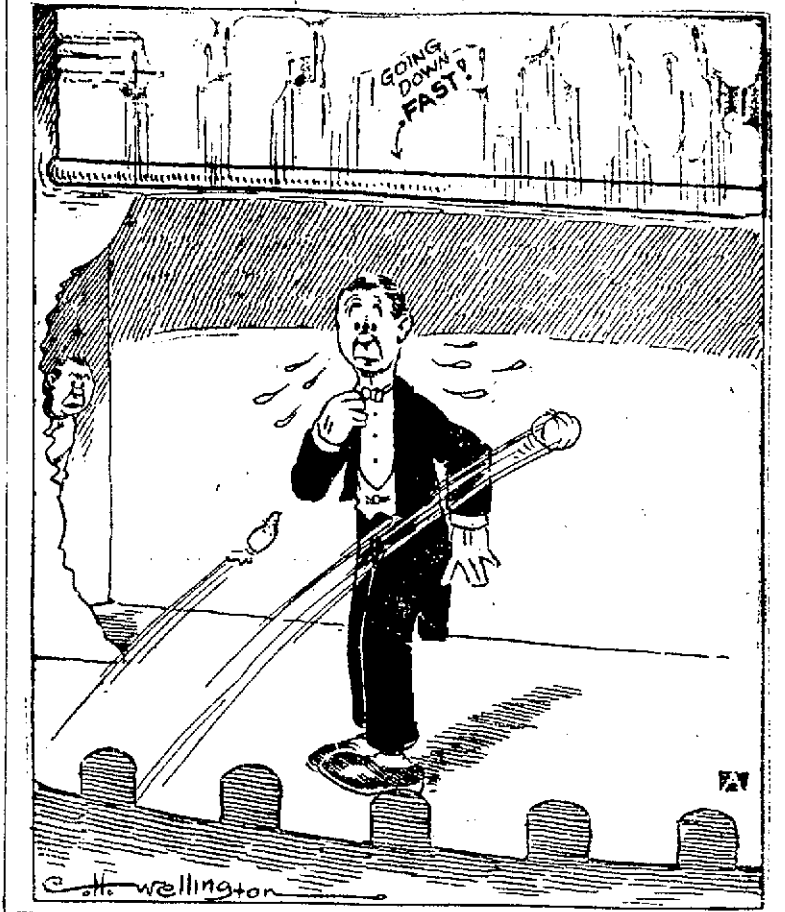

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb. 17, 1876.—By our dispatches this afternoon it will be seen that A. C. Bates & Son lost $7,000 at a fire in Rutland, Vt., this morning.

During the sixteen days prior to last Sunday one of our city pastors, who in conjunction with other ministers has been holding revival meetings at Beloit and other places, delivered seventeen sermons, made thirty-four public prayers and delivered thirty exhortations.

Today was set for trial in Justice Whitaker's court, the case against a number of young men on the charge of disturbing a religious meeting at Magnolia on the sixth of this month. As the defendants disclaimed any intention to cause a disturbance, although their conduct was ill-becoming gentlemen, the matter was settled before it came for trial in court.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—A convention of the nurserymen of America has been called to meet in Chicago on the second Wednesday in the month of June.
